JURY CALLED BUT EXCUSED

A MISUNDERSTANDING OVER CIRCUIT COURT TRIAL.

SEVERAL CASES OFF

Prosecutor Dismisses Four Criminal Charges.—Divorce to Mrs. Margaret Pickett.

A misunderstanding by counsel over the date of a trial resulted in excusing the petit jury in circuit court today. It was the first day that the jury had been called this session and the plaintiffs in the case, the First National Bank of Burlington Junction against C. A. Carter, on a note, were ready for trial.

The case, however, had been set for the first day of the trial docket and will be called for trial at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The jury was ordered to report again at that time. Two jurors, farmers, were discharged from jury service this term by Judge John M. Dawson, who admitted that at this time of the year farm work is pressing and it is difficult for the farmer to leave his farm.

A divorce was granted to Mrs. Margaret Pickett of Hopkins from Frank S. Pickett on ground of indignities and failure to provide. Mrs. Pickett's maiden name of Margaret Wooldridge was restored by the court.

The prosecuting attorney dismissed several cases on the criminal docket Saturday afternoon. They were:

William Bogue, charged with issuing a bogus check.

Ernest Wray Says Freeze Widespread

Ernest Wray, president of the Nodaway county Farm Bureau, returned last night from a meeting of the state federation of the Farm Bureau at Jefferson City, of which he is vice-president.

"The crops are hurt down there as far south as Jefferson City, perhaps no more than ours, but their fruit is all gone and that is one of their main products," Mr. Wray said this morning in speaking of the recent cold spell. "The oats there aren't hurt, but lots of the wheat is dead," he said.

Mrs. Mell Sheley of Hopkins Dies Here

Death Follows But Not Directly Due to Leg Injury—Funeral Services Wednesday Afternoon.

Mrs. Mell Sheley, 58, a life-long resident of the Hopkins vicinity, died at 1:55 o'clock this morning at the St. Francis hospital here. She had suffered for five weeks with a broken leg sustained in a fall at her home north of Hopkins, but this injury was not directly responsible for her death.

Mrs. Sheley is survived by her husband and five children: Mrs. Carrie Roush, north of Hopkins; Mrs. Velma Oberhauser, northwest of Hopkins; Mrs. Anis Horning, northeast of Hopkins; Floyd, near Bedford, and Fay of Shenandoah. She also leaves three brothers and four sisters, Frank Bordner and Harry Bordner of Hopkins; John Bordner, Bedford; Mrs. Elmer Orme, north of Hopkins; Mrs. Mary Webb, Bedford; Mrs. Lucy Quickly of Illinois; and Mrs. Mollie Williams of Kansas.

Mrs. Sheley was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The funeral services will be held at the Methodist church at Hopkins Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Robert Johnston Dies at Eldorado Springs

Body of Former Elmo Resident to Blanchard, Ia., for Burial.

Robert Johnston, a former resident of Elmo, died at his home in Eldorado Springs late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, it was learned today. The body will be brought Wednesday morning to Blanchard for funeral services and burial.

He leaves a wife and daughter, one sister and brother, whose names were not available.

Funeral services will be held at the Methodist Church at Blanchard, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and burial will be in the Blanchard cemetery.

That St. Louis Hooch!

St. Louis, Mo., Apr. 16.—An unitentified drunk man armed with a shot gun forced a city employe to give him a ride on a motor vacuum street sweeper here, then commandeered a ride on an automobile and fled at the approach of police.

Lindbergh Takes One More Lap of Flight

Some Say Destination Is Colorado Springs, Others Believe Its St. Louis.

Denver, Colo., Apr. 16.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Lowry Field here at 10:03 a. m. today in his Ryan monoplane on another leg of his "Mystery" flight.

"I haven't anything to say," he remarked to newspapermen as he climbed into his new ship, in answer to queries about his destination.

It was reported that Lindbergh would land at Colorado Springs to meet Harry Guggenheim of the Guggenheim foundation, sponsor of the airman's round-the-country tour last August.

Other reports said the distinguished young airman would continue on his way to St. Louis.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS SCHOOL

DISTRICT MEETING TAKES PLACE AT HOPKINS TODAY.

SEVERAL FROM HERE

Maryville Chapter in Charge of Degree Work Tonight.—Electric Signet Used First Time.

School of instruction for the seventh district of the Order of Eastern Star was held in Hopkins, this afternoon and another session will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. Nora Coleman, district deputy grand matron, from the Hopkins chapter, has supervision of the meeting, which includes the following chapters: Hopkins, Maryville, Pickering, Burlington Junction, Skidmore, Elmo, Ravenwood, Clearmont, Guilford, Quitman, Graham and Parnell.

The following grand officers were present: Mrs. Vida Mae Hamlin, Maryville, grand warder; Mrs. Georgia S. Bondurant, worthy grand matron, Kirksville; Miss Nell Page, grand lecturer, Canton; Mrs. Vera Camp, St. Joseph, Grand Esther.

The banquet will be served at 6 o'clock to the visiting delegates.

The Maryville chapter will be in charge of the degree work at 7:45 o'clock tonight. The officers from here who will attend include: worthy matron, Mrs. Cora Hantze; worthy patron, Jonathan Stark; associate matron, Mrs. Thurle Kessler; secretary, Mrs. Bertha Hereford; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Eckles; conductress, Mrs. Zelpha Garten; associate conductress, Mrs. Nellie Appleby; Ada, Mrs. Anna Withington; Ruth, Mrs. V. E. Bird; Esther, Miss Rosella Froman; Martha, Mrs. Merle Smith; Electa, Mrs. Mary Kegin; warder, Miss Hattie Culver; musician, Miss Neva Sage; sentinel, Ernest Kessler; chaplain, Miss Etta Marie Stiverson; musicians, Mrs. June Blagg and Miss Lois Cummins; candidates, Mrs. Cecil Wilson and Walter Smith.

Many other members from Maryville expect to attend.

An electric signet of the order which was presented to the Maryville chapter by the Wade family in memory of Mrs. Mattie Wade, the oldest member of the organization, who died recently, was used for the first time at the school of instruction today. Mrs. Vida Mae Hamlin made the presentation speech when the gift was made to the chapter here Friday night.

Rathbone Would Fix Campaign Expenses

Constitutional Amendment Permitting Congress to Regulate Expenditures Is Proposed.

Washington, Apr. 16.—A constitutional amendment permitting congress to regulate campaign expenditures is proposed in a resolution introduced today by Representative Rathbone Republican, Illinois.

He explained that the supreme court decision in the Newberry case apparently prevents Congress from regulating primary campaign expenditures and that his resolution would open the way for limited expenditures in primary campaigns as well as in general elections.

Battle Over Choice for Vice-Presidency

Contest in Socialist Convention Is Between Upton Sinclair and Mrs. Metta Berger.

New York, Apr. 16.—Nominations for the Vice-Presidency of the National Socialist ticket attracted more attention today at the party's convention than nominations for the presidency.

Rumors in the convention hall indicated the battle might be between Upton Sinclair, author, and Mrs. Metta Berger, wife of Representative Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, the only Socialist in Congress.

YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT HEADS

AUDREY LINTHICUM, SWAN CHAPEL, COUNTY PRESIDENT.

TO MEET HERE IN 1929

Hereafter Each Church Sending Delegates Will Have Five Votes in Election.

County Young People's Officers.

President, Audrey Linthicum, Swan Chapel district.

Vice-president, William Elliott, Graham.

Girls' secretary, Evelyn Evans, Maryville.

Boys' secretary, Walter Allen, Maryville.

Treasurer, Lois Dakan, Rockford district.

Organization of the Nodaway County Young People's Council for the new year was completed late Saturday afternoon during the business session of the annual conference, which was held in Graham.

It was voted to do away this year with two separate councils, boys' and girls', and have but one representing both.

The nominations were made by a committee composed of a delegate from each district represented at the conference.

New Officers Installed.

Miss Audrey Linthicum of Swan Chapel district, was elected president of the council; William Elliott, Graham, vice-president; Evelyn Evans, Maryville, girls' secretary; Walter Allen, Maryville, boys' secretary; and Lois Dakan, Rockford district, treasurer.

The officers were installed at the closing meeting Saturday night by Miss Ruth Bookman, county young people's superintendent.

It has been decided to hold the meeting next April in Maryville. A vote was taken by the conference. Elmo extended an invitation.

A new plan of young has been adopted. Next year in electing county officers every church in the county will be given five votes toward an officer. This will mean that a church sending fifteen delegates will have no stronger voting power than the church sending but one. Instead of using the individual votes, a count will be made by churches.

An amendment was added declaring a church's vote would be lost should that church fail to be directly represented at the annual conference.

Districts Also Elect.

The district officers are to be elected at the first district meetings following the county conference. In case a district elects its officers during the county conference, those officers must be approved at the district meeting.

The Maryville district will meet the last Monday in each month. District officers were elected Saturday at the conference but must be approved by the young people of this district. They follow:

Each district is to pay financial pledges for the new year as apportioned by the council.

The Iye tribe, with Carl LeRoy Fisher as leader, won the prize Saturday night for presenting the best stunt. The tribe gave an impressive presentation of camp life in Colorado. A framed motto, hand-painted by Beatrice Puckett, on "The Quest of Life," was the award. Other tribe leaders were Miss Puckett, Harold Braun and Harriett Miller.

Despite unfavorable weather, a large group of county young people attended the meeting. They were guests Friday night in the homes of Graham residents.

Trial for Officers of Land Bank Set

Judge Otis Fixes May 7 as Date Walter Cravens and Miss Todd Will Be Tried for Misappropriation.

Kansas City, Mo., April 16.—Judge Merrill E. Otis of the federal court today set the trial of Walter Cravens and Miss Alice B. Todd, president and secretary of the defunct Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, for May 7.

Several motions submitted by the defense Friday, including plea in abatement and a demurrer, were overruled by Judge Otis.

The indictment against Cravens and Miss Todd contains eighty-seven counts and charges misappropriation of funds and false entries in the books of the bank.

Locher Takes Oath as Ohio's Senator

Washington, April 16.—Cyrus Locher, Cleveland attorney, today took the oath of office as junior Senator from Ohio to fill the vacancy created by death of Senator Willis.

Birdhouses in Library and Courthouse Trees

Handiwork of Boy Scouts Placed Under Direction of Twentieth Century Club Committee.

Birdhouses made by Maryville Boy Scouts, for which prizes were given last fall, were put up on the courthouse and library lawns Saturday.

The bird houses were placed in suitable trees under the direction of a committee from the Twentieth Century Club. Mrs. C. E. Stilwell and Mrs. W. C. Pierce composed the committee.

Six birdhouses were placed in trees in the courthouse yard, and four in trees on the library lawn.

The Scouts have several houses which they intend to sell and the proceeds will go into the Boy Scout treasury.

The Boy Scout court of honor meets tonight, with the public invited to attend.

WEST PLAINS PROBES DEATH

THREE INQUIRIES INTO DANCE HALL TRAGEDY.

1ST THEORY DOUBTED

Explosion Caused by Something More Powerful Than Gasoline, Is General Belief.

WEDDING PLANS ARE CHANGED TO FUNERAL

West Plains, Mo., April 16.—A romance that soon was to have culminated in a wedding was interrupted by the dance hall explosion Friday night that sent forty persons to their death.

Major Robert Mullins, World War veteran and active in National Guard affairs in Missouri, and Mrs. Kitty McFarland, head of a local undertaking establishment, were to have been married at an early date. Their bodies were found a few feet apart in the wreckage.

Mrs. McFarland's first husband was killed in a motor car accident five years ago. She was 32 years old and Major Mullins was 34.

West Plains, Mo., April 16.—Reports that her husband had contemplated the destruction of his garage and had intended suicide or was a fanatic against dancing were ridiculed today by Mrs. J. W. Wiser, widow of the owner of the Wiser Motor Company, who lost his life Friday night in the explosion and fire which had its origin in his place of business and which claimed the lives of 40 persons.

Interviewed today for the first time since the fire, Mrs. Wiser told of the movements of her husband Friday. She was unable to walk, as she was in a nervous condition.

She said her husband had worked in the garden during the afternoon with their son Paul, 14 years old. Later he went to his garage and when her husband failed to return home for supper Mrs. Wiser said she did not feel uneasy.

Denies Telephone Call.

There was no "mysterious" telephone call, as had been reported, she said. When informed that night by a motorist that her husband's garage was a fire, Mrs. Wiser said she dressed and went to the fire, not knowing that her husband had been killed.

A theory that dynamite or nitroglycerine — not gasoline — caused the explosion was under a triple investigation today.

Prosecuting attorney H. M. D. Greene, Sheriff Fred W. Jurnes and Chief of Police J. A. Bridges of West Plains are jointly fathering evidence for submission to a coroner's jury which will complete its work Wednesday.

"We are agreed that very probably something more potent than gasoline—as first believed—caused the explosion," Chief Bridges told the United Press. "A good reward will be paid to the person who supplies information that will clear this matter up."

Final Rites Paid.

Meanwhile, as grief-stricken residents of this little Ozark Mountain town prepared to pay final rites to the twenty-eight identified and eleven unidentified dead, the three officials continued their investigation and checked important developments of yesterday. The fortieth body was found in debris yearly yesterday.

FLIGHT STORY FINALLY TOLD

GERMAN PLANE'S CROSSING OF ATLANTIC IS DESCRIBED.

FOUGHT WIND AND FOG

With Gas Nearly Gone, Bremen's Crew Still Pressed on for "New York or Heaven."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Out of the frozen reaches of the far North which has held prisoner the German-Irish transatlantic fliers since their dramatic landing on Greenly Island, Labrador, the first story of their hazardous flight to America has come through to the United Press.

The narrative of the Bremen's feat was sent from Long Point of Blanc Sablon to Seven Islands in the upper St. Lawrence River and thence relayed to the United Press, New York.

Seven Islands, Que., Apr. 16.—In the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, the German-Irish crew of the Junkers monoplane Bremen still hope that they can fly out from Greenly Island—where they were forced to land Friday afternoon—and make their way back to civilization.

They have obtained material to make repairs on the Bremen, the United Press was advised in dispatches from Blanc Sablon, and are attempting to get it in shape to continue their flight as far as possible—to New York if that is feasible.

Meanwhile, the United Press correspondent has received via Blanc Sablon, which is situated on the mainland just across from Greenly Island, a connected story of the flight, describing the dangers encountered in the westward crossing of the North Atlantic ocean and the forced landing which was made on Greenly Island when the Bremen—with Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, and Commandant James Fitzmaurice aboard—exhausted her entire fuel supply.

Weather Good at First.

After leaving Baldonnel Airdrome near Dublin, Ireland, Thursday morning, the fliers encountered unexpectedly favorable weather over the first part of their flight. The wind was blowing against them but it was not of sufficient velocity to seriously impede their progress.

At about mid-Atlantic, however, the winds became stronger and they ran into their first serious fog-bank, forcing them to dip their plane down to a dangerously low altitude.

At the lower altitude they found it easier to buck the wind, but even there they were fighting every mile of their way against the same head-winds which spelled defeat for all who went before them on attempts to cross the North Atlantic from east to west.

Hopes Short Lived.

Then, when they had flown long enough to believe that they were reaching the North American continent, the fog lifted temporarily and brought fresh cheer to the hearts of the courageous crew. The headwinds still were strong but they hoped that the lifting fog meant that fair weather over Newfoundland was ahead of them.

Their hopes were short-lived, however, for presently they flew into a fog bank much denser and more foreboding that the one they left behind.

Then their strong hearts were chilled as they ran into a driving snow storm which turned slowly into sleet and they noticed that their plane was being weighted down by the coating of ice.

Thought of Other Victims.

The winds became stronger and more furious. They feared they were running into the same spot which had brought defeat to Nungesser and Coli to Princess Anne of Lowenstein-Wertheim and her two companions, and to the Hon. Elsie Mackay and Capt. Walter Hinchliffe, all of whom were lost in previous attempts to do what these men now were trying to do.

But they pressed their hardy Junkers plane on in the face of the storm. They tried to hold it to its course but found it impossible. The winds were carrying the Bremen northward almost as though she had no power at all. They noticed that their magnetic compass was performing erratically and they were not sure of their directions.

They were utterly unable to compute their mileage, so uncertain was the forward progress they were making. But they believed—and as it turned out they were correct in their beliefs—that they were nearing the coast of Newfoundland, somewhat to the north of St. Johns, over which they had expected to fly.

Gas Lower and Lower.

The gas supply, however, was running lower and lower. They must reach land soon or plunge into the sea. They decided to come down to a still lower altitude in the hope of sighting land.

This they did and it was only about

PLANE MINUS MOTOR MAKES SAFE LANDING

Seven Passengers Owe Lives to Flying Skill of Vance Breese, Who Lands Propellorless Ship.

San Francisco, April 16.—Five men, a woman and a boy today owed their lives to the nerve and flying skill of Vance Breese, airplane pilot.

While flying at an altitude of 1,200 feet and at a speed of 100 miles an hour, Breese's plane, carrying seven passengers, lost its propellor and motor.

Breese righted the motorless plane from a tail spin and brought it safely to earth.

BLOW DEALT TO SINCLAIR

OIL DRAINAGE THEORY BARRED FROM TRIAL.

DECLARED IRRELEVANT

Government Also Gets Backset When Justice Bailey Rules Out E. L. Doheny, Jr., Testimony.

Can't Publish Deposition.

Washington, April 16.—Justice Jennings Bailey of the district supreme court today warned newspapermen attending the Harry F. Sinclair oil trial that publication of the deposition taken from Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of Interior, before it is formally introduced in the trial would be considered contempt of court.

"I have been told a newspaper has published, or is about to publish the Fall deposition," Justice Bailey said.

"In my opinion, that would be contempt of court and if it is published I shall have steps taken to punish accordingly."

Fall, who was a co-defendant with Sinclair in the first fraud trial last October gave a deposition at El Paso, Texas, recently.

Washington, April 16.—The government scored heavily today in the oil conspiracy trial of Harry F. Sinclair, when Justice Bailey in District of Columbia supreme court excluded defense testimony tending to show that leasing of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve was necessary because of oil drainage into other fields.

Justice Bailey upheld the objections of Owen J. Roberts, special government oil prosecutor, that such testimony is irrelevant. He ruled it had no direct bearing on the indictment charging Sinclair got the Teapot Dome lease through conspiracy.

George Hoover, defense counsel, contended that the eliminated evidence was to be used to show that former Secretary of Navy Edwin Denby was the prime factor in the leasing of Teapot Dome and that former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, in granting the lease to Sinclair, merely acted as agent for Denby. He said he was trying to use the drainage evidence to show there was an emergency and that the leasing of the reserve was necessary to prevent the government from losing its valuable oil.

Needed by Defense.

The defense noted an exception to Justice Bailey's ruling against drainage evidence. Hoover argued strongly that the defense needed to introduce such evidence to lead up to the main points in the case.

North Polie Dirigible Completes First Leg

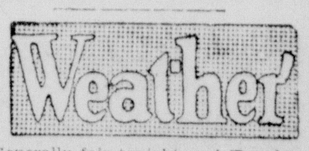
Against Great Weather Handicap, the Italia Arrives at Stolp, on Baltic Coast.

Berlin, Apr. 16.—Against great handicaps—which included flying through a nasty thunderstorm with imminent danger of explosion—the Italian North Polar dirigible, Italia, has successfully completed the first part of its polar cruise.

The dirigible, commanded by Commander Umberto Nobile, arrived over Stolp, Pomerania, on the Baltic coast of Germany, at 7:45 a. m. today, and landed at Seddin Airdrome at 8:35 a. m.

Thousands were waiting at the airdrome and cheered when the majestic appearing dirigible circled slowly over the field. The crowd had been on hand since dawn.

The flight from Milan to Stolp took almost 30 hours and during the time the dirigible fought the most unfavorable weather possible. The Italia left Baggio Airdrome at Milan at 2 a. m. Sunday.



Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight; moderate temperatures Tuesday.

ONE FLIER TAKEN OFF

CAPT. FITZMAURICE LEAVES ISLAND IN RESCUE PLANE.

IN DOUBT ON OTHERS

Two Germans Will Fly Bremen on to New York if Possible, It Is Believed.

Murray Bay, Que., April 16.—Duke Schiller left Greenly Island with Capt. James Fitzmaurice of the crew of the Bremen at 10 a. m., today, advices received here this afternoon said.

Schiller and Fitzmaurice started back to civilization in the plane sent to Greenly Island by the Canadian government.

The advices received here said that Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl, the two German members of the Bremen's crew, were left behind with their airplane but did not say whether Dr. Louis Cusinier, who flew to the island with Schiller, was returning with him.

Report Is Confirmed.

Quebec, Que., April 16.—Confirmation was received here that Col. James Fitzmaurice left Greenly Island today for Father Point with Duke Schiller as pilot in a Transcontinental Airways plane.

They were expected to reach Father Point about 3 p. m., and Colonel Fitzmaurice probably will catch a train for Quebec or Montreal immediately. The information came through the Dominion Ship Service office here.

By United Press.

Their own determination to complete the flight to Mitchel Field, L. I., in the same airplane in which they were first to conquer the North Atlantic ocean was believed today to be holding the German-Irish crew of the Bremen on Greenly Island in the Strait of Belle Isle between Newfoundland and Labrador.

The first of a half a dozen rescue planes which started out from Canadian points to aid the Bremen's crew arrived at Greenly Island Sunday evening. Captain James Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the Bremen's crew, started back to civilization with Duke Schiller, one of the rescue pilots.

It was considered unlikely that the German airmen, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Capt. Herman Koehl would consent to abandoning their monoplane if there was any way of avoiding it.

Not Beyond Repair.

United Press dispatches from the island, telling for the first time the complete story of their flight from Dublin, indicated that the Bremen had been damaged somewhat in landing but that it was not beyond repair.

Tools and supplies carried to the island by Schiller and Cuisinier may aid the Bremen's crew in putting their plane in shape for a flight, possibly sometime today.

Failing in that, the German-Irish crew may decide to crate their plane and load it aboard the Canadian patrol boat Montcalm, which is fighting its way through the ice, now less than seventy miles from Greenly Island.

Second Plane Fails.

The Schiller plane was one of two the Canadian government had sent to the aid of the German flyers. The other had to turn back because of the storms breaking over Labrador. Two other planes waited here today ready to carry American photographers and newspapermen to Greenly Island.

Arrival of Schiller and Cuisinier took to the three transatlantic fliers the first personal information of how eagerly Canada and the United States waited to greet them.

Meanwhile the importance of the Bremen's accomplishment in completing a flight that had defeated so many aviators before was being impressed upon this country and Europe.

News Is Fragmentary.

Newspapers, press associations and news picture syndicates were offering every inducement to the natives of the Belle Isle Strait region to penetrate to Greenly Island to interview and photograph the flyers. But storms and ice floes were defeating practically every project and the only real news of what was happening at the Bremen camp came in fragmentary dispatches by way of a small radio station at Point Amour on the coast of Labrador.

Sister Ship to Montreal.

Curtiss Field, N. Y., April 16.—Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the airplane manufacturer, left at 2:10 p. m., today for Montreal in the sister ship of the transatlantic plane Bremen.

Miss Junkers' brother, Erhart, and Fred Melchoir, chief pilot of the Junkers Company in America, also were in the plane. They will wait at Montreal for word from Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and his companions on Greenly Island where the damaged Bremen is being held for repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hall had as their guest yesterday, W. W. Potts of Burlington Junction.

HUMANITY'S KINSHIP.

The great public interest in transatlantic flights such as that of the Bremen is a splendid symptom.

During the night and day that the Bremen was out over the Atlantic, telephones in newspapers offices rang constantly as readers called up to see if any news of the fliers had been received. The three aviators were the objects of public sympathy and hope throughout the country. Men and women everywhere were praying for them, paying tribute to their gallantry and daring.

It is good for us to be lifted out of our shells in that way occasionally. It emphasizes anew the common kinship of all humanity.

Reed Appeal Set for Early Hearing

Washington, April 16.—The U. S. supreme court today advanced for early hearing the appeal of the Reed Senate primary investigating committee from lower federal court decisions which denied the committee a mandate to compel Pennsylvania authorities to turn over the Vare-Wilson ballot boxes to the committee.

Hearing was set for April 23. The lower courts asserted they had no jurisdiction to help the committee in this manner.

New Altitude Record for Women Claimed

Midland, Tex., April 16.—A new world altitude record for women fliers was claimed today by Miss Hazel Tinnin, 18, pretty blue-eyed brunette aviator.

Miss Tinnin, accompanied by Ralph Montee, co-pilot flew to a height of 19,600 feet here yesterday before she was forced down by high winds.

The previous record, 18,000 feet, was held by a French woman.

Italian Takes Lead in "Bunion Derby"

Bristow, Okla., April 16.—Peter Gavuzzi, stocky anglo-Italian, held first place today in the Pyle trans-continental footrace.

Winning yesterday's 34.8-mile lap from Chandler to Bristow, in 4:25:37, Gavuzzi took the lead from Andrew Payne of Claremore, Okla., for the first time since the runners crossed the Oklahoma border a week ago.

Eddie Gardner, Seattle Negro, was second, and Harry Rea, Long Beach, Cal., third.

The destination of today's run was Tulsa, 41 miles away.

Richard Dix Much Better.

Hollywood, Cal., Apr. 16.—Condition of Richard Dix, motion picture actor recently operated on for appendicitis, has improved greatly, attendants at Roosevelt hospital said today. He was reported out of danger.

Prominent Opera Singer Dies.

Chicago, Apr. 16.—Vittorio Arimondi, internationally known in opera circles and former basso with the Chicago Civic Opera company, died of heart disease here last night. He was 65.

Asks Neighbor for Drink, Killed.

Tulsa, Okla., April 16.—When he awakened a neighbor to ask for a drink, Charles Gray, 65, laborer, was shot and killed here Sunday. E. Q. Rowell, the neighbor, was held for investigation.

13 Die in Fire.

Altoona, Pa., April 16.—Thirteen persons were burned to death early today in a fire which destroyed the home of Embro Kretachalk, at Blair Four, two miles south of Williamsburg.

This and That

Believe it or not—

Miss Laura Gatton, student at the State Teachers College, was baking a cake at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gatton of near Maryville. When she broke an egg she found a shingle nail in the white of the egg, inside the shell. This happened two weeks ago.

WEST PLAINS PROBES DEEP

ity dance-hall where the explosion occurred, was exhumed one hour after burial in Oaklawn cemetery yesterday. It was found he was suffering from burns resembling acid, not gasoline. His wounds were considered significantly different from the other victims.

Although admittedly without a definite clue to the exact nature of the explosion, Greene, Jurnes and Bridges considered the possibility that West Plains had been victimized in the manner that Andrew P. Kehoe, a demented school board official, dynamited a school at the little town of Bath, Mich., last year, when 44 persons were killed.

Bridges considered as significant the fact that the gasoline tank of the Wiser garage—a 60-gallon portable affair—was found virtually intact, undamaged except for external bruises probably caused by falling bricks.

"Wholly Unsatisfied."

"Everyone here appears wholly unsatisfied with the theory that gas caused the explosion," he said.

Four funerals were held for identified victims yesterday. They were Mrs. Carl Mullins, West Plains; Charles Murk, West Plains; Paul Evans, jr., West Plains, and Wiser, whose body was promptly exhumed for the autopsy which disclosed the peculiar nature of his injuries.

Additional private funerals were to be held today, here and at surrounding and more distant towns. Tomorrow, all remaining unidentified dead will be interred in separate caskets in one large plot in the city cemetery following joint community funeral services.

"There probably will never again be a public dance in this town on Friday, the 13th," Chief Bridges said.

Child Runs Into Trolley, Killed.

Kansas City, Mo., Apr. 16.—Harry Klue, 3, was killed here yesterday when he ran into the street and into a moving street car.

How Hoover Met Mississippi Flood Diaster

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four articles describing Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, and the seventh in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for the Democrat-Forum and Tribune and NEA Service by Robert Talley. Tomorrow will begin the story of Governor Al Smith.

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, April 16.—The spring of 1927 saw the worst flood in the history of the Mississippi valley. Six hundred and fifty thousand people were homeless, barns and houses floating down toward the Gulf, crumbling levees had chased thousands to the refuge camps on high grounds, crops were ruined, everything was lost and disease stalked in the wake of grim desolation.

Into this crisis, President Coolidge sent Herbert Hoover as director of relief forces. The man who had fed and clothed hungry and shivering Europe went among his own people on a similar mission.

How many tents did the army have? Fine! Send 40,000 of them to such and such cities. Get 100,000 more ready for use when called for. Send every available cot to cities like Memphis and Vicksburg. Ship 200,000 army blankets. Commandeer all small boats, barges and the like. Select sites on high ground for refugee camps. Set up telephones, telegraphs and radios. Summon every doctor and nurse available. See that every refugee in every camp is inoculated against typhoid and vaccinated against small pox. Get the army engineers busy designing those camps so they will be sanitary. Get clothing, food supplies, medicine, mosquito netting. Buy everything possible in the flood zone so as to steady the markets there as much as possible.

The story of that heroic fight is too fresh in the minds of readers to require repetition here, but it might be well to show how Hoover went about it.

He described the task thus:

"The first thing to consider at all costs is to get all of those people out of danger. They must be rescued whether they want it or not.

"Next, they must all be got into camps. They must be fed and clothed and inoculated so there will be no epidemics.

"Third, we'll have to get them back into their old jobs and on their own farms and plantations. We must get livestock for them and see that they get their crops replanted.

"Fourth, we must organize credit for them. They've got to be financed."

At the end of a long day's work of rescue, Hoover would retire into whatever happened to be serving as his office at the time—a Pullman compartment, a stateroom on a river steamer a railway smoking room or whatnot—and begin planning the next step.

"What can these people plant in this area after June 15 and still harvest?" he would ask. "What can they grow to help feed their cattle and mules, if they have any left?"

Men familiar with the south would explain. Then Hoover would resume:

"I want to know the amount of seed needed in each package to provide for a family of five. Larger families can have two packages. Telegraph all the agricultural colleges and nurseries in this part of the country to start plants right now so they can be transplanted when the flood recedes—a million heads of cabbage—a million tomatoes to plant"—and so it went, day after day and night after night.

The nation responded nobly to the Red Cross appeal, the government sent airplanes and supplies, states loaned their troops, the American Legion volunteered its services, the Red Cross doctors and nurses came, army enginneers looked after camp sanitation, trainloads of food and clothing poured in. And so Hoover moved toward the consumation of the big task that lay before him.

Hoover's efficiency was not of the impersonal kind. Once a soldier entered a railway car when Hoover was studying a map and asked:

"What are we going to do with all those dogs, sir?"

"What dogs?" asked Hoover.

The soldier explained that many of the refugees had brought their dogs to the camps with them, and some had even brought cats.

"Take good care of them," said Hoover, promptly. "These people haven't saved much. If any of them have pets let them keep them and take care of them. Some of the refugees can build kennels for them."

The soldier hesitated.

"Some of 'em have got canaries, too," he said.

"Order some bird seed with the rest of these supplies and charge it to me," Hoover said, turning to his secretary.

There are thousands of negroes in the Mississippi delta who believe that Hoover is president today. Didn't he come down from Washington?

Once a relief worker was trying to convince an old negro preacher in Mississippi that Hoover was merely secretary of commerce.

"Well, hit's all de same, aint' it?" the old negro asked.

In Arkansas once an old negro, after hearing Hoover speak, approached him and said: "Ah's alwahs wanted to meet yuh, Mistah Lowden!"

The rich and the poor, the humble and the proud had suffered alike. The water that ruined the oil paintings in the home of a rich plantation owner and laid waste to his crops, likewise drove the negro tenant farmer from his 40 acres and perhaps drowned his mule. Hoover aided all impartially.

The Mississippi valley flood is history now, but the memory of what Hoover did there is one of the chief reasons for his popularity as a presidential candidate. Yet, he has never sought to capitalize this.

The record in which Hoover takes most pride is in having made a big job out of a little one at the Department of Commerce. By intensive and extensive organization, he had reached out to get foreign trade for America and today the United States' foreign trade is 35 per cent above pre-war level, even after the depreciation of the dollar has been deducted.

He has saved millions for American industry by standardization, eliminating odd and needless sizes in many products by agreement. Measures to eliminate waste have saved many more millions. As a building aid, he has initiated the Better Homes movement in 4000 communities of the United States. He has promoted employment by co-ordinating seasonal activities engineered a radio treaty with the nations of the world and done much to promote commercial aviation.

Steadily, the secretary of commerce has gone about his task of organizing the business of a nation and into this government activity he has put his tireless energy and ability as an engineer.

The Hoover day begins at 8 a. m. when his bureau chiefs take breakfast with him at his home and plan the day over eggs and coffee. He is at his office promptly at 9 o'clock. There is an hour's intermission for lunch at the Cosmopolitan Club at noon. And then he goes back to his desk, which he seldom leaves before 7 or 7:30 p. m.

And so ends the story of Herbert Hoover, a tireless, capable genius for organization and efficiency whose fame spans the world—but just about the weakest politician that Washington ever saw.

TOMORROW: The story of Al Smith.

A tough, durable finish for floors

Kitchen, bathroom, and hallway floors need an enamel finish that is extra tough and wear-resisting.

For these floors we recommend LOWE BROTHERS FLOOR ENAMEL. It is a finish that is easy to clean and one that will last. It has unusual spreading capacity and is very economical. It dries hard and smooth overnight. Also makes an excellent finish for kitchen walls and woodwork. Many colors from which to choose.

The New Maytag Makes House Cleaning Easier

Wash Heavy Blankets, Quilts, Rugs or Draperies this Easy Way

BECAUSE its large, roomy, cast-aluminum tub holds four gallons more than ordinary washers, the Maytag handles the bulky things of housecleaning time easily. It will flush out, with surprising speed, all the dirt from comforters, blankets, rag rugs, etc. Now is the time to make a free trial test of the Maytag. It will wash your fine draperies and curtains as carefully as if washed by hand.

The seamless, cast-aluminum tub keeps the water hot; the all-metal, Roller Water Remover—a new, exclusive Maytag feature, sets close to the water line, making it easy to put the heavy blankets through. The tension adjusts itself, and the balloon-type rolls remove the soap and water evenly from every part of the fabric.

PHONE for a Maytag. See it wash a big tubful of clothes every 2 to 7 minutes, an average washing in an hour without hand-rubbing anything. Use it for a week's washing FREE. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Miss Hansen and Walter Sturm Wed at 7 a. m. Today

The single ring ceremony was used in the marriage ceremony this morning when Miss Agatha Beatrice Eleanor Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hansen, Maryville, became the bride of Walter Edwin Sturm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Sturm of Conception.

The wedding took place at the Holy Family church at Conception at 7 o'clock this morning. Miss Wilhelmina Hansen of Maryville, sister of the bride, attended the bride. Fred Sturm, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The Rev. Father Odilo Schieber read the service.

The bride wore an ensemble of beige flat crepe and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a three-course breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The members of the wedding party and close relatives were guests at the breakfast. The table was decorated with sweet peas.

The bride was graduated from Maryville High School in 1927. She is well known as a violinist and is now an advanced senior in the Conservatory of Music at the State Teachers College. She will finish the music course.

Following a honeymoon trip to Kansas City the couple will be at home on a farm east of Maryville owned by the bridegroom.

Easter Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Pearl Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner of Tacoma, Wash., to Mr. Charles Byron James, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. James of Cameron, which was announced in the Democrat-Forum, Saturday, was solemnized at the First Methodist Church at Tacoma, at 9 o'clock Easter Sunday morning. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Dr. L. G. Grigsby, pastor of the church. The church was decorated with Easter lilies and ferns.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party and a limited number of guests went to the Tacoma hotel, where they were served a wedding breakfast given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner.

They are at home at Tacoma, Wash., after April 15. Mr. James is manager if the shoe department of the J. C. Penney Store Company at Tacoma.

The bridegroom is a brother of Miss Minnie James of the State Teachers College, here.

Sunday School Party.

The members of the Sunday School class of the Wilcox M. E. Church, South, were entertained at the home of Floyd Wyman, west of Maryville, Saturday night. The evening was spent in playing games and refreshments were served.

The guests were Misses Elsie and Netta Mae Rogers, Helen Holt, Augusta Mae Vert, Lucille Duncan, Pauline and Lois Thompson, Beatrice Cox, Lucille Leeson, Helen Winnell, Retha Logan, Lora Lowell; and Lester Hall, Harry and Carl Winnell, Kenneth, Herman and Shelton Thompson, Marshall Ford, Jake Shamberger, Lawrence Logan, Truman and Billie Shelton, Robert and Russell Ruhl, Paul Wyman and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wyman.

Guests From Creston.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bryant and Oran Wiley, Creston Ia., were visitors at the L. H. Wiley home yesterday. Also Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Wiley of Graham and daughters, Leona, Lois Marie and Lavonne.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Wiley left on the evening train Sunday for Creston. Oran Wiley was visiting his parents and little daughter Wilma.

P. E. O. Meets.

Chapter L, P. E. O. met at the home of Mrs. Fred Kurtz, Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. F. R. Marcell was elected treasurer of the organization to fill the office which Mrs. W. N. Deatherage held. A farewell for Mrs. Deatherage was given, also. She leaves soon to make her home in California. Mrs. Charles Wadley was an assisting hostess.

The lesson subject for the afternoon was Contemporary American Fiction. Miss Minnie James gave a survey of the field of fiction. Miss Lucile Brumbaugh gave a review of "Ethan Frome" by Edith Wharton.

Mrs. G. B. Roseberry and Mrs. J. H. Knox will leave tomorrow for Kansas City, where they will represent the Maryville chapter at the state convention of P. E. O.

The state convention will be held at the Hotel Muehlbach, April 17 to 19.

Birthday Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wilson entertained with a dinner in celebration of the birthdays o ftheir sons, Walter and Hope Wilson yesterday. A birthday cake lighted with candles was used in the center of the table. Crepe paper decorations were used.

The other persons present were: Mrs. Thana Hope, Miss Fannie Hope, Miss Charlotte Welchel, Edna Bell Welborne, Mildred Evans, Vilas Thorpe and Dean Miller.

Tourist Meeting.

The Tourist department of the Twentieth Century Club will meet with Mrs. Harry Todd at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon instead of at the home of Mrs. J. H. Gray. Elections of officers will be held.

The W. N. Club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irvin Perry with Mrs. Cleo Lane as leader. The opening song was, "He Whispers His Love to Me." The scripture lesson was from the twenty-sixth chapter of Acts. Mrs. John Cooper won the prizes in the two contests. Mrs. George Sexton and Mrs. Fred Griffey drew presents from the birthday box. The closing song was, "O, That Will Be Glory." The Lord's prayer was repeated by all. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. John Cooper and Mrs. John Knisley. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Sexton April 26, with Mrs. Irvin Peery as leader.

Members present were: Mrs. Susan Hayes, Mrs. Emma Shields, Mrs. Nancy Cooper, Mrs. Sam Culver, Mrs. Edd Griffey, Mrs. Amos Hayes, Mrs. Cleo Lane and children, Mrs. Fred Griffey and daughter, Mrs. Robert Dew and daughter, Mrs. John Cooper and Miss Edna Gray.

Fashions Change But Feet Do Not

A very witty Irishman once said, "Fashions change but feet do not." What a world of wisdom is wrapped up in these few words, and how we should all take them to heart when we set out in our quest for shoes.

We have tried to do our part by providing you with shoes made of honest leather and whose excellent workmanship insures the wearer real comfort. That isn't all, however. You must do your part and select shoes adapted to the use you are going to give them. Don't teeter around on spike heels during workaday hours. It never was comfortable, and now it isn't even fashionable.

Pack Memory With "Roses for December", Rev. Mitchell Urges

"Pack your memory in the early years of your life with beautiful sights and sounds, with kindly words and deeds. Then when your life approaches its close, its December, and you cannot go out to see and hear and speak, memory will bring much back to you, and you will have roses to cheer you."

This was the theme of the sermon on "Roses in December," which the Rev. R. A. Mitchell preached yesterday morning at the M. E. Church, South. He took his text from 1 Timothy, 6:19, "Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come," and also quoted the words of Jesus. "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven."

"God gave us a memory that we might have roses in December," the Reverend Mr. Mitchell explained.

Urging his hearers to "get at it early," he said:

"If I were giving a lecture it would be easy to say: See all the fine pictures you can. See the beautiful spots in this and other lands. Hear all the lofty music you can. Do this if you have to sacrifice some other things.

"Then when you get old and are too old to travel or to go to concerts or to visit picture galleries or to read books, memory will bring back the things you have seen and read and will enrich your life with roses."

Some Additional Advice.

But because he was "not lecturing but before a worshiping congregation," the minister gave some additional injunctions:

"It is more blessed to give than to receive," he reminded his audience. "You cannot speak a kind word to anybody, you cannot do a kind deed without getting more good out of it than they get.

"The world is not an orange. You squeeze out of an orange all you can get for your own enjoyment. If you do that with the world I can promise that when the end comes, you will have nothing left but yourself—and such a poor self that people will cast you out upon the human junk heap.

"Do not live for self. A poor, withered thing you will be when you reach December, if you do. You cannot love God without loving men and women. You cannot love men and women without wanting to do your best for them.

"I guess I see about as much as anyone of other people's homes," the Reverend Mr. Mitchell said. "Never once in my ministry have I seen a single case where a boy or girl, having been thankful and kindly, ministering to father and mother, but what it has come back to him or her in wonderfully rich ways in after years. In your declining years the memory of such will be among your most fragrant roses.

Church Attendance Important.

"Worship. Few people realize how important church attendance is. Get in all the worship you can. But remember that God has no use whatever for the offering of the lip while He is refused admittance to the heart.

"When your December comes, you may be tied at home by infirmity, but if you have been a regular attendant at church you will have a thousand roses to cheer you.

"Such fragrant memories make some who spend their Sundays on the highways, on the golf course, around the bridge table, feel like picking up their hats and stealing quietly out the back door.

"The Bible. What do you know about it? The time may come all too speedily when you will have difficulty reading a few verses in the largest print. Get all you can of the Word of God in your heart, so that when the eventide comes, even though it is full of pain and weakness, God's promises will shine out as stars and cheer you to the end of your days."

The pastor's final injunction was, "Get something done for Christ." "Whatsoever good things you possess," he declared, "the one thing that stands out above all else is the salvation of God. Nothing you can ever do for your fellowmen will mean so much to them as to you as leading them to Christ. Christ said, 'I have laid the foundation of the church. I leave its building to you. I have made the church possible. I leave its toil to you.'

"You talk about your faith in God. What about God's faith in you?"

SOCIETY

Attends Meeting.

Mrs. H. E. Wright returned from Kirksville, Saturday night, where she attended the branch quarterly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Methodist church. Mrs. Wright is recording secretary of the branch.

M. I. Circle.

The M. I. Circle will meet at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Melvin.

For Their Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Moore entertained Wednesday in honor of the birthday of their guests, Mrs. Celia Rippen and Mrs. Allie Neal of Portland, Ore., who are making an extensive visit here. Mrs. Rippen made several stops on the way here. She visited her brother at Salt Lake City, Mrs. Charles Richerson at Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Pinto at Omaha, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crabb and Mr. and Mrs. Oral Neal, Minneapolis, Minn., also her sister who accompanied her here. Mrs. Rippen's journey home will go through Oklahoma, Texas and California, where she expects to visit many friends and relatives. Mrs. Rippen and Mrs. Neal both were reared on the same section of Nodaway county in which they are now visiting.

Social at St. Mary's Church.

A card social will be given next Thursday evening in basement of St. Mary's Church, by members of St. Anne Altar Society. The hostesses will be Mrs. Louis Gram, Sr., Mrs. Charles Barmann, Mrs. Maggie Lahr, Mrs. William Sturm, Mrs. August Stapler and Mrs. Tony Bluel. Refreshments will be served and prizes given. Everyone is cordially invited.

Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Florea entertained with a dinner at their home, on the highway north of Maryville, yesterday in celebration of the fifty-seventh birthday of C. M. Whitman, brother of Mrs. Florea, and also in observance of the birthdays of Mrs. Clarence Gonser, sister-in-law of Mrs. Florea, Mrs. Roy Killam, sister of Mrs. Florea; Mrs. Viola Alexander, aunt of Mrs. Florea. Mr. Whitman's birthday was Sunday and the others have birthdays during the week. The dinner also was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Horton, Clarinda, Ia., who were married recently. Mrs. Horton is a niece of Mrs. Florea. Guests at the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. John Hood and daughters, Audrey, Eva and Ada, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Killam and children, Pauline, Evelyn and Herbert; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gonser, Mr and Mrs. Clarence Horton, Mrs. Viola Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Florea, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Florea and C. M. Whitman.

Mrs. Allender, Hostess.

Mrs. J. C. Allender is planning a series of bridge parties the first two of which will be given this week Thursday and Friday are the days which Mrs. Allender has chosen for the affairs.

Homemakers Club.

The Homemakers Club of the M. E. Church, South, met at the home of Mrs. Dan R. Baker, Friday afternoon. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Lee Carpenter, Mrs. L. P. Colvin and Mrs. Eldon Lloyd. The president, Mrs. M. A. Peery, opened the meeting. The members repeated the Lord's prayer.

The May meeting of the club was planned at the business sesson. Mrs. M. E. Farrar and Mrs. N. G. Ellis will have charge of the program at the meeting. The affair will be held at the home of Mrs. Bess Holt, with Mrs. Joe Russell and Mrs. Guy Griffith as assisting hostesses. The date of the meeting is May 11.

Refreshments were served during the social hour, Friday. Fourteen members and one visitor, Miss Anna Nielson, were present.

Will Meet Wednesday.

The Mowry W. W. W. Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Will Hewitt in the afternoon.

Dinner Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller had as their dinner guests yesterday Miss Laura Hawkins, Miss Ada Hawkins and W. E. Goforth.

For Florida Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wells entertained at dinner yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Orville Willhoyte and their daughter, Mrs. Hershel Dunaway, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who arrived here Tuesday. Mr. Dunaway will come later.

Other guests at the dinner yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wray and family.

Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Casteel, J. B. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Neville.

CAST IS GIVEN FOR OPERETTA

"LELAWALA" IN COLLEGE AUDITORIUM TOMORROW NIGHT.

PRESENTED BY H. S.

Elaborate Costumes to Be Used in Presentation of Story Founded on Indian Legend.

After several postponements, "Lelawala, the Maid of Niagara," an operetta in three acts will be presented at o'clock tomorrow night in the auditorium of the State Teachers College by the choral organizations of the Maryville high school and the high school orchestra.

Seventeen principals take part in the story, assisted by sixty voices and the orchestra. There will be a chorus of Indian hunters, squaws and maidens, soldiers, and white maidens.

Elaborate costumes from the Lieben Costumers of Omaha will be used. The tepees were painted by Junior Curnutt and Harold Knox.

The choral director is Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell; dramatic director, Miss Augusta Quell; orchestra director, H. O. Hickernell; dancing director, Miss Loretta Jones.

Lelawala is an Indian story centered around a legend of Niagara Falls. Doris Snodgrass plays the role of Lelawala, the Maid of Niagara.

The cast of characters:

Klolowar, his son, Richard Nelson.

Marpeetopah, tribal medicine man, Edgar Russell.

Hintola, grandmother of Lelawala, Laura Warner.

Sowanas, lover of Lelawala, an Algonquin, Edward Clary.

Shungela, rejected lover of Lelawala, Harry Trullinger.

Wacootay, an Oniahgahrah brave, Roland Russell.

Wambebe, an Oniahgahrah brave, Maurice Woodburn.

Wanyeca, a romantic widow, Ruth Kramer.

Napanee, who loves Klolowar, Mary Donna Malotte.

Eagle Eye, a famous Scout, Robert Wray.

Major Wallace, Commandant of a fort, Harold Knox.

Mabel, his daughter, Virginia Bennett.

Captain Bliss, lover of Mabel, Richard Nelson.

Clarinda Bond, who admires the Sergeant, Mary Alice Jones.

Sergeant Bilks, who admires himself, Richard Sellers.

Lord Tatler, who admires witticisms, Ford Bradley.

The acts and scenes follow:

Act 1. Scene 1. Indian village near Niagara Falls. Early morning.

Act 1. Scene 2. The same, two days later. Afternoon.

Act 2. Scene 1. Indian camp in forest glade. Night, a week later.

Act 2. Scene 2. Same as Act 1. Afternoon and evening a week later.

Act 3. Same as Act 1.

Weather Interferes With Grading Work

Highway Construction Near Burlington Junction Is Slowed—Necessary to Move Camp.

The grading being done on State Highway No. 18 west of Burlington Junction has been held back a great deal the last week because of the bad weather.

The camp, located on the outskirts of Burlington Junction for several weeks, was forced to move, due to the flooded condition of the ground on which it was located. It is now located on the west end of the road project, where the grading is now being done. The grading on the Nodaway river lowlands has not yet started.

The work of excavating for the bridge across Mill Creek has been progressing as rapidly as possible, however. The recent rain hindered a great deal and kept the workmen in mud most of the time.

The grading on Highway No. 18 through the west part of Burlington Junction has been completed up to the Burlington tracks, just west of the Main street in Burlington Junction.

The following material for highway work was received at Burlington Junction last week: One car of sewer pipe, and one car of galvanized iron culverts, one car of miscellaneous construction material, and two carloads of lumber.

Smallpox Case at Burlington Junction

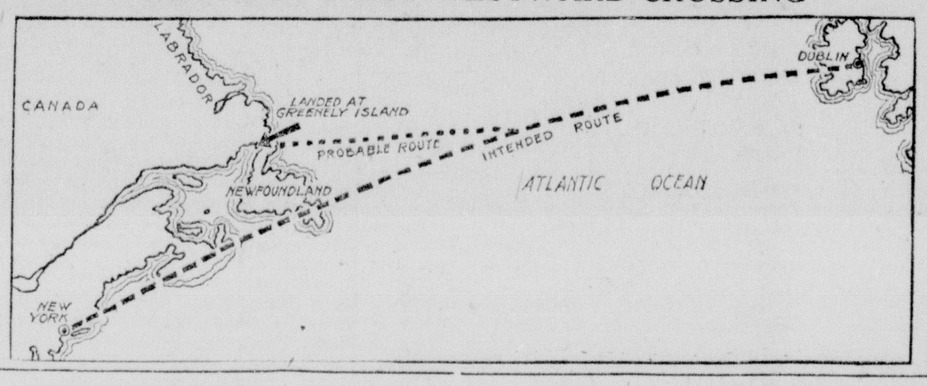
Case Now Under Quarantine Is First One There Since Early in the Fall.

Edward Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wright of Burlington Junction, became ill the first part of last week, and during the last of the week the city physician quarantined him for smallpox.

This is the only case in Burlington Junction at this time. No other case has been reported since early in the fall.

Burlington Junction also has had several cases of chicken pox the last few weeks.

ROUTE OF FIRST WESTWARD CROSSING



Called Here By Death.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery Fox of the Fox Laundry Company, St. Joseph, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Opal Kirby, also of St. Joseph, were called here yesterday by the death of J. W. Partridge, their cousin. Funeral services for Mr. Partridge were held this afternoon.

Drive to Excelsior Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rhoades, Mrs. Thomas Wadley and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Irvin drove to Excelsior Springs yesterday where Mrs. Wadley and Mrs. Rhoades remained to take treatments.

Sherlocks Markets Hogs.

CHAPTER 52

After a short silence, during which three of us remained speechless, the same feminine voice said in a loud, distinct tone: "No; nothing is the matter. I'm sorry. . . . . Everything is all right . . . . Please go home, and don't worry."

The needle had come to the end of the record. There was a slight click, and the automatic device shut off the motor. The almost terrifying silence that followed was broken by a sardonic chuckle from Vance.

"Well, old dear," he remarked languidly, as he strolled back into the living-room, "so much for your irrefutable facts!"

There came a loud knocking on the door and the officer on duty outside looked in with a startled face.

"It's all right," Markham informed him in a husky voice. "I'll call you when I want you."

Vance lay down on the davenport and took out another cigaret. Having lighted it, he stretched his arms far over his head and extended his legs, like a man in whom a powerful physical tension had suddenly relaxed.

"Pon my soul, Markham, we've all been babes in the woods," he drawled. "An incontrovertible alibi—my word! If the law supposes that, as Mr. Bumble said, the law is a ass, a idiot.—Oh, Sammy, Sammy, vy worn't there a allebi; . . . . Markham, I blush to admit it, but it's you and I who've been the unutterable asses."

Markham had been standing by the instrument like a man dazed, his eyes riveted hypnotically on the telltale record. Slowly he came into the room and threw himself wearily into a chair.

"Those precious facts of yours!" continued Vance. "Stripped of their carefully disguised appearance, what are they?—Spotswoode prepared a phonograph record — a simple enough task. Everyone makes 'em nowadays —"

"Yes. He told me he had a workshop at his home on Long Island where he tinkered a bit."

"He really didn't need it y' know. But it facilitated things, no doubt. The voice on the record is merely his own in falsetto — better for the purpose than a woman's, for it's stronger and more penetrating.

"As for the label, he simply soaked it off of an ordin'ry record, and pasted it on his own. He brought the lady several new records that night, and concealed this one among them.

"After the theater he enacted his gruesome little drama and then carefully set the stage so that the police would think it was a typical burglar's performance. When this had been done he placed the record on the machine, set it going, and calmly walked out. He had placed the prayer-rug and bronze bowl on the cabinet of the machine to give the impression that the phonograph was rarely used.

"'And the precaution worked, for no one thought of looking into it. Why should they? . . Then he asked Jessup to call a taxicab—everything quite natural, y' see. While he was waiting for the car the needle reached the recorded screams. They were heard plainly; it was night, and the sounds carried distinctly. Moreover, being filtered through a wooden door, their phonographic timbre was well disguished. And, if you'll note, the enclosed horn is directed toward the door, not three feet away."

"But the synchronization of his questions and the answers on the record. . .?"

"The simplest part of it. You remember Jessup told us that Spotswoode was standing with one arm on the switchboard when the screams were heard.

"He merely had his eye on his wrist-watch. The moment he heard the cry, he calculated the intermission on the record, and put his question to the imagin'ry lady at just the right moment to receive the record's response.

"It was all carefully figured out beforehand; he no doubt rehearsed it in his laborat'ry. It was deuced simple, and practically proof against failure. The record is a large one—twelve-inch diameter, I should say—and it requires about five minutes for the needle to traverse it.

"By putting the screams at the end he allowed himself ample time to get out and order a taxicab. When the car at last came, he rode direct to the Stuyvesant Club, where he met Judge Redfern and played poker till three. If he hadn't met the Judge, rest assured he would have impressed his presence on some one else so as to have established an alibi."

Markham shook his head gravely.

"Good God! No wonder he importuned me on every possible occasion to let him visit this apartment again. Such a damning piece of evidence as that record must have kept him awake at night."

"Still, I rather fancy that if I hadn't discovered it, he would have succeeded in getting possession of it as soon as your sergent-de-ville was removed.

"It was annoyin' to be unexpectedly barred from the apartment, but I doubt if it worried him much. He would have been on hand when the Canary's aunt took possession, and the retrieving of the record would have been comparatively easy. Of course the record constituted a hazard, but Spotswoode isn't the type who'd shy at a low bunker of that kind. No; the thing was planned scientifically enough. He was defeated by sheer accident."

"And Skeel?"

"He was another unfortunate circumstance. He was hiding in the closet there when Spotswoode and the lady came in at eleven. It was Spotswoode whom he saw strangle his erstwhile amoureuse and rifle the apartment.

"Then, when Spotswoode went out, he came forth from hiding. He was probably looking down at the girl when the phonograph emitted its blood-chilling wails. . . . My word Fancy being in a cold funk, gazing at a murdered woman, and then hearing piercing screams behind you! It was a bit too much even for the hardened Tony.

"I don't wonder he forgot all caution and put his hand on the table to steady himself. . . . And then came Spotswoode's voice through the door, and the record's answer. This must have puzzled Skeel. I imagine he thought for a moment he'd lost his reason.

"But pretty soon the significance of it dawned on him; and I can see him grinning to himself. Obviously he knew who the murderer was—it would not have been in keeping with his character had he failed to learn the identities of the Canary's admirers.

"And now there had fallen into his lap, like manna from heaven, the most perfect opportunity for blackmail that any such charmin' young gentleman could desire. He doubtless indulged himself with roseate visions of a life of opulence and ease at Spotswoode's expense. When Cleaver phoned a few minutes later, he merely said the lady was out, and then set to work planning his own departure."

"But I don't see why he diddn't take the record with him."

"And remove from the scene of the crime the one piece of unanswerable evidence? . . Bad strategy, Markham. If he himself had produced the record later, Spotswood would simply have denied all knowledge of it, and accused the blackmailer of a plot.

"Oh, no; Skeel's only course was to leave it, and apply for an enormous settlement from Spotswoode at once. And I imagine that's what he did. Spotswoode no doubt gave him something on account and promised him the rest anon, hoping in the meantime to retrieve the record.

"When he failed to pay, Skeel phoned you and threatened to tell everything, thinking to spur Spotswoode to action. . . . Well, he spurred him—but not to the action desired. Spotswoode probably met him by appointment last Saturday night, ostensibly to hand over the money, but, instead, throttled the chap. Quite in keeping with his nature, don't y' know. . . . Stout fella, Spotswoode."

"The whole thing . . . it's amazing."

"I shouldn't say that, now. Spotswoode had an unpleasant task to perform, and he set about it in a cool, logical, forthright, businesslike manner. He had decided that his little Canary must die for his peace of mind: she'd probably made herself most annoyin'. So he arranged the date—like any judge passing sentence on a prisoner at the bar—and then proceeded to fabricate an alibi.

"Being something of a mechanic, he arranged a mechanical alibi. The device he chose was simple and obvious enough—no tortuosities or complications. And it would have succeeded but for what the insurance companies piously call an act of God.

"No one can foresee accidents, Markham; they wouldn't be accidents if one could. But Spotswoode certainly took every precaution that was humanly possible. It never occurred to him that you would thwart his every effort to return here; and he couldn't anticipate my taste in music, nor know that I would seek solace in the tonal art.

"Furthermore, when one calls on a lady, one doesn't expect that another suitor is going to hide himself in the clothes-press. It isn't done, don't y' know. . . . All in all, the poor johnny was beaten by a run of abominable luck."

"You overlook the fiendishness of the crime," Markham reproached him tartly.

"Don't be so confoundedly moral, old thing. Every one's a murdered at heart. The person who has never felt a passionate hankering to kill some one is without emotions. And do you think it's ethics or theology that stays the average person from homicide? Dear, no! It's lack of courage—the fear of being found out, or haunted, or cursed with remorse.

"Observe with what delight the people en masse—to wit, the state—put men to death, and then gloat over it in the newspapers. Nations declare war against one another on the slightest provocation, so they can, with immunity, vent their lust for slaughter. Spotswoode, I'd say, is merely a rational animal with the courage of his convictions."

Dr. S. S. Murdock Gives Talk and Is Made Vice-President of District Association.

Dr. J. A. Anderson, Dr. Iola Warehime, Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Murdock and daughter, Laura Jean, attended the Northwest Missouri Chiropractors meeting in St. Joseph Sunday. Laura Jean Murdock played the Fifth Nocturne by Leybach as a piano solo and was the guest of the association.

Dr. Murdock talked on the relative progress of chiropractic and osteopathy, and also was elected vice-president of the association to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Charles Miller of Savannah, who resigned.

Cast for Pickering Play Is Announced

Seniors to Present Three-Act Comedy at M. E. Church the Night of April 19.

The senior class of the Pickering high school will give its class play, "A Hoodooed Coon," a three act comedy, at the Pickering M. E. Church the night of April 19.

The class will be assisted in presenting this play by Floyd Billingsley and John Hood. Hood will take the part of Misery Moon, the Hoodooed Coon, and Billingsley will play the part of Gideon Blair, a millionaire.

The parts taken by the seniors are: Tom Rissle, Glen Swaney; Hiram Tutt, Donald Hanna; Patrick Keller, ticket seller, Brice Rickard; Samantha Slade, an old maid, Hazel B. Scott; Rosebud Reese, niece of Miss Slade, Verna Pistole; Paula Maleek, Verna Treese; Lulu Pearl, known as a "jazz-time girl," Mrs. Opal Rickard.

John Jahne, superintendent, has announced that the commencement address will be delivered by G. H. Colbert of the State Teachers College faculty, May 17.

Two Grade Track Meets Postponed

Events at Both Pickering and Barnard Called Off Saturday Because of Bad Weather.

The track meets for Barnard and Pickering grade school pupils, which were scheduled for Saturday, were not held because of unfavorable weather. Ed Adams of Barnard said today that the meet at Barnard will be held Saturday of this week if weather permits. No announcement had been made today concerning the Pickering meet.

To Attend Meeting of Federal Workers

Postmaster J. F. Hull and Assistant Postmaster Fred French went to St. Joseph this afternoon to attend a meeting of the St. Joseph Federated Business Association. The meeting will be addressed by Judge Merrill E. Otis, federal judge.

The postal department was districted under the Harding administration into co-ordinating zones with a co-ordinator at Chicago. There resulted from this the Federal Business Association by districts, to which all federal employes belong and Maryville is in the St. Joseph district.

Miss Eula Miller, a teacher in the Junior high school at Marceline, Mo., visited over the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Miller.

New Engineer Takes Charge of Division

(St. Joseph Gazette).

D. B. Levi will assume his duties in St. Joseph as division manager for the State highway department the latter part of next week. Mr. Levi, who was formerly assistant construction engineer at Jefferson City, was promoted to division manager to take the place of N. R. Sack, now bridge engineer of the highway department. Mr. Sack will make his home in Jefferson City.

Mr. Levi, who is married, has been connected with the state highway commission for five years. He is well known in highway circles and is considered a competent man. These two moves will not necessitate any further changes in the local division.

Agriculture Is Issue, Says Adam McMullen

Republicans Must Nominate a Candidate in Sympathy With Farm Relief, Nebraska Governor Holds.

Lincoln, Neb., April 16.—Governor Adam McMullen today said that agriculture will be the dominating issue at the Republican national convention, and that only a candidate in sympathy with farm relief will be able to win in the fall election.

The governor said the agricultural issue was predominant in the Nebraska primary, in which the Norris ticket, in sympathy with farm relief, won ten of the nineteen delegates, and may gain an eleventh in the final count. Norris delegates-at-large won a large majority in the contests, although the anti-Norris candidates lacked but one of an equally large majority in the six district contests.

E. M. Statler, Noted Hotel Owner, Dead

New York, Apr. 16.—E. M. Statler, head of the Statler chain of hotels, died today in his suite at the Pennsylvania hotel.

Death was caused by double pneumonia. Mrs. Statler was with her husband when he died.

Statler was 64 years old and was widely known as the originator of "perfect service" as a hotel slogan. He recently installed radio receiving sets in every room of his many hotels, introducing the event himself through a nation-wide radio hook-up.

Stapel Heads Democratic Editors.

'AL' MINGLES WITH POLICE AND FIREMEN

New York Governor May Be Housed at Exclusive Club, but That Doesn't Cramp His Style.

He Won't Go to Houston.

Asheville, N. C., April 16.—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York definitely has decided not to attend the Democratic national convention this year.

He told his intention today to a group of newspapermen.

Asked if he might not change his mind, he said:

"No. I mean that I will not attend."

Ashville, N. C., April 16.—Governor Al Smith may be at the exclusive Blitmore Forest Club for his first Dixie vacation but he has no intention of spending all of his time there.

Firemen, policemen, railroad men and factory workers are among those Smith has been most anxious to include among his North Carolina friends.

Sunday he went to Old Fort, N. C., to renew the acquaintance of George Sandlin, railroad station master, who greeted him on his way to Asheville. He saw the two-man police station and inspected the cells. He also met W. L. Dawson, chief of the Old Fort fire department. Dawson afterward said he would vote Democratic in November for the first time in his life.

Today the New York Governor planned to visit manufacturing plants here and play golf later in the day.

Smith's game "is not so good," he confided to a questioner.

Put An End To Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflammation of swollen toe joints and help get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask Maryville Drug Company or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if one bottle of Emerald Oil does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

BLOW DEALT TO SINCLAIR

Justice Bailey merely said "exception noted," and ordered the trial to proceed.

Evidence of three defense witnesses was stopped by Justice Bailey on government objection. First, E. C. Finney, assistant Secretary of Interior, was excused while testifying in support of Sinclair's contention that competitive bidding was not necessary on Teapot Dome. Second, the court ruled out exhibition by A. C. Veatch, Sinclair official, of a model of Teapot Dome to show the alleged Drainage. Third, Carroll H. Wegemann, former government petroleum expert, was prevented from answering questions of defense attorney Hoover along the same lines.

Doheny Testimony Barred.

The Defense reverses occurred soon after the government had finally rested its case. On opening of court, Justice Bailey said the government could not introduce testimony of E. L. Doheny, jr., that he had carried $100,000 from his father, rich oil man, to Fall prior to the naval oil lease transaction. The government was permitted, however, to present two witnesses to show that Fall had received $25,000 bonds as fees from Harry F. Sinclair in 1923 after Fall and Sinclair had completed an unsuccessful hunt for oil consessions in Russia. These two witnesses completed the prosecution's case.

The government had hoped to have young Doheny testify to carrying $100,000 in a little black bag from his father to Secretary of Interior Fall in 1921 before Fall leased the Government's Elk Hills reserve to Doheny and Teapot Dome to Sinclair. It planned to show by this that fall was influenced in his lease transactions by the desire for money both before and after he granted the concessions.

Justice Bailey said the Fall-Doheny transaction had no bearing on the present trial but that the Russian matter was related directly to Sinclair.

Drainage Ruling Modified.

Later, however, Justice Bailey allowed the model of Teapot Dome to be brought back into court, to be used for illustrating the field but not to be admitted as evidence.

The court modified its "drainage ruling" by permitting Arthur W. Ambrose, former Interior Department petroleum technologist, to explain what a "saddle" is in the Wyoming oil fields.

This defense witness explained a "saddle" was lowlands between two high points.

Roberts objected to this indirect testimony of possible drainage, but was overruled.

During the entire morning session a map of the Wyoming oil fields, in red, white and blue colors, hung on a rack near the jury box.

PRAISES FOR 'OLD HICKORY'

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ACCEPTS JACKSON STATUE.

GIFT FROM TENNESSEE

Statesmanship of Man Who Rose From Obscurity to Chief Executive Is Lauded.

Washington, April 15.—The career of Andrew Jackson, seventh president of the United States, was extolled today by President Coolidge in accepting on behalf of the nation a statue of "Old Hickory," the gift of Tennessee. An unpretentious ceremony marked acceptance of the statue in the Hall of Fame at the Capitol.

Tracing the turbulent life of Jackson, familiarly known as "Old Hickory" because of his stoic fortitude on the forced marches toward New Orleans in 1813, the President emphasized the astute statesmanship of the man who rose from obscurity to become the country's chief executive.

Mr. Coolidge specifically referred to Jackson's contest to prevent the recharter of the United States Bank, and his proclamation denying the right of secession, issued after South Carolina had passed its famous nullification act which aimed to set aside tariff duties within its territory.

Lauds Proclamation.

In referring to the latter, Mr. Coolidge said:

"This proclamation has been regarded as one of the best state papers of any American president. It was thoroughly nationalistic in spirit and had a profound effect."

It was in connection with the latter sequence of events, the President pointed out, that Jackson made the remark which has become an American classic: 'Our Federal Union—it must be preserved."

The President's estimate of Jackson embodied numerous characteristics of him as statesman, soldier and patriot that have endeared him to the biographer and historian who delight in the spectacular. The President said:

"Thrown on his own resources as he was, he grew up proud and high-tempered, oftentimes violent in his disposition and considerably interested in the sports of the countryside . . . . He showed that he held opinions of his own by opposing a resolution in the House (Jackson was only 29 at the time) commending President Washington on his last annual address."

Speaks of Respect for Justice.

And in calling attention to Jackson's respect for the administration of justice:

"Here was a man who stood ready to fight a duel, if he thought the circumstances required it, of an impetuous nature and impatient of all restraint, yet clearly announcing the supremacy of the law."

Closing his address, Mr. Coolidge said, in predicating the statement that Jackson had triumphed over opponents who were considered then, and rank now, among the outstanding statesmen of his day:

"History accords him one of the high positions among the great names of the country. He gave to the nationalist spirit through loyalty to the Union a new strength which was decisive for many years.

"His management of our foreign affairs was such as to secure a wholesome respect for our government and the rights of its citizens. He left the treasury without obligations and with a surplus. Coming up from the people, he demonstrated that there is sufficient substance in self-government to solve important public questions and rise superior to a perplexing crisis.

"Like a true pioneer, he broke through all the restraints and impediments into which he was born, and leaving behind the provincialisms and prejudices of his day, pushed out toward a larger freedom and a sounder government, carrying the country with him."

Speeches also were made by Governor Henry H. Horton of Tennessee, and Claude J. Bowers, noted Jackson biographer.

Power of Faith Can Overcome the World

Most Material "Victories" Are "Ignominous Failures," Rev. L. E. Lakin Tells First Christian.

Faith is the power that overcomes the world, the Rev. L. E. Lakin, pastor ad interim, told members of the First Christian church Sunday night.

"Overcoming the World," was his topic, and he used for a text: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

"Most of what the world calls "victories" are "nothing more than ignominious failures," the minister asserted.

"Old Croesus had things, but whether he mastered them or they mastered him we do not know. The old feudal lords lived opulently within their feudal estates, but they lived as prisoners within prison walls.

"Does freedom come with wealth? Not always—it seldom does. "I find that people as a rule serve houses or lands or banks or stores or business. The slave has not been set free.

"And knowledge is proving the very bane of our existence. We don't know how to use it, can't master it, it has become an ungoverned power. With the getting of that kind of knowledge, we are certainly not succeeding.

"Shunting the load onto other shoulders is not victory. Getting around the difficult places is not success. Escaping the problems and sorrows of life is not triumph.

"Some 'thorn in the flesh' tormented Saul. He prayed for deliverance, but the answer was 'I'll give thee grace to bear it.'

"That is victory.

"Faith overcomes the world. It is able to visualize the world that ought to be, and that must be. The crowd called Jesus a failure, but even on the cross He was able to visualize his coming kingdom.

"Faith is able to recognize the meaning and the importance of spiritual things. It has a keen sense of values and material things can never overshadow the spiritual. Sorrow and pain do not crush. Physical limitations do not occasion despair. Opposition does not overwhelm, rather it inspires. Faith overcomes the world because it is able to transmute the baser things of life into gold.

"And faith overcomes because faith is life—life at its best. Faith sees God through the revelation that has been given. Faith obeys. And faith continues when the body has wasted away."

Senator Donnelly to Seek Re-Election

Jefferson City, Mo., April 16.—Senator Phil M. Donnelly of Lebanon today filed his declaration for the Democratic nomination for Senator to succeed himself in the 27th district. Final Grain Review.

Chicago, April 16.—With wheat leading the bulge all grains shot into another sharp advance on the board of trade today. The bull drive which boosted prices 11 cents last week, was still in full swing in wheat and the tone was steadily strong. Corn advanced on wheat's strength and oats on crop damage and low stocks.

The wheat market was another of the board and spectacular markets that upset all calculations last week. All deliveries went to new high levels, May and July topping $1.55. Heavy profit taking by local professional traders who thought it about time for a break was absorbed by the new buying and the tone continued strong. Bullish sentiment was intensified by reports from the southwest that drouth still menaces winter wheat there. Cash demand from mill interests continued strong and cash prices advanced one to two cents. Receipts here 38 cars. Exports business was limited to 500,000 bushels durum wheat to England.

Corn's advance was due mostly to the strength in wheat. Belt weather, however, was unfavorable for the movement and receipts were light for a Monday at 217 cars; cash corn advanced ½ cent.

The oats market was a spirited affair and prices took their sharpest spurt in many weeks. Freezing weather Saturday and Sunday was said to have seriously damaged the new crop in some sections. The cash market was strong, prices advancing 1½c bringing cash premiums to their highest level in several years. Receipts were 82 cars.

Final figures: Wheat, 2¼c to 2⅝c higher; corn, ⅝c to ½c up and oats ⅝c to 2⅜c higher; nearby deliveries soaring spectacularly. Provisions lost part of their gains but closed higher.

H. S. ENTRIES ARE PILING IN

271 MORE NAMES OF CONTESTANTS RECEIVED THIS MORNING.

BETHANY 77 STRONG

Harrison County School Leads in Number Thus Far.—Burlington Junction First From Nodaway.

Entries for the Nineteenth Annual Northwest Missouri High School contests and field meet, which will be sponsored by the State Teachers College here April 26-28, began to pour in today in the office of M. E. Selecman, manager of thecont ests.

Two hundred and seventy-one entries were added this morning to those already received, and several hundred more were expected to be received in mails later today, as this was the last day for mailing of entries. It may be several days, however, before all are received here.

Bethany again will have a large delegation competing in the various contests. This school heads the list to date in number of entries. The school certified seventy-seven students, according to the list received by Mr. Selecman. Burlington Junction was the only Nodaway county town to have sent in entries today, listing the names of thirty-three students.

Out of an enrollment of only fifty-six pupils, the Edgerton high school will send twenty-four entries, Mr. Selecman stated.

He also said that more rooms are needed in order to house the more than 1,300 contestants and teachers who will be here for the three-day event the last week of the month. Rooms to accomodate 1,000 have been listed with the Chamber of Commerce but rooms for at least 200 more are needed. The entries received this morning at the College from high schools in Northwest Missouri were:

Grant City, 28.
Oregon, 8
Union Star, 5.
Hamilton, 19.
Benton, 9.
Smithville, 26.
Fairfax, 1, track entries to follow.
Edgerton, 24.
Burlington Junction, 33.
Tarkio, 37.
Gilman City, 4.
Bethany, 77.

Demands Track Men Keep Strict Training

Coach H. F. Lawrence Calls Attention of S. T. C. Athletes to Two Important Approaching Meets.

Coach H. Frank Lawrence, head of the department of men's physical education at the State Teachers College, issued a notice to varsity track men today, demanding strict adherence to training rules and more regular attendance at afternoon work-outs.

The varsity squad is required to meet for drill at 3:30 each afternoon with Mr. Lawrence. In his notice he said: "Practice under no supervision will not be countenanced, and if any person is unwilling to comply with the requirements he may be transferred into one of the physical education classes."

With the coming of two of the most important meets of the season this week and next, it is necessary for the coaches at the college to pay special attention to the conditioning of the men.

The Kansas relays will be held April 21. Coach Lawrence was not certain as to the events in which he would make entries, but it has been indicated that a medley relay team will be sent to the Kansas carnival, and probably some hurdlers and dash men.

The next week after this week's contest will be the annual Drake relays and carnival, in which the Maryville tracksters first entered in 1921, to set a precedent which has been followed by cinder track sprinters from here ever since.

BANDITS AWAY IN POLICE CAR

TOLEDO ROBBERS LEAVE $200,000 LOOT, HOWEVER.

TRAPPED IN A GARAGE

Gang Kidnaps Express Messengers and Guards, Then Fight Way to Freedom With Shotguns.

Toledo, O., Apr. 16.—Five bandits kidnaped an express messenger and three guards here today, seized $200,000 in loot and thirty minutes later were surrounded in a garage by police.

The messenger and guard had just left the Union Station with a valuable consignment of cash, securities and travelers checks when the robbers leaped into the truck and menaced the messenger and guards with the shotguns. The chauffeur was forced to follow a circuitous route to a lonely spot near the University of Toledo, where two other machines drew along side.

The messenger and guards were gagged and their hands were bound with tape. While three of the bandits transferred the loot to the other cars the other robbers dumped their victims into the truck.

The robbery was discovered by a University student who found the truck. He liberated the four men and called police and federal officers.

Felled by Machine Gun.

Two patrolmen were first to respond. One of these was Zientara. The bandit cars were driven into a garage several blocks from where the robbery took place.

As Zientara and his fellow officers approached, the bandits opened fire, then fled through a rear entrance.

Zientara pursued them, firing as he ran. As he emerged through the rear entrance he was felled by bullets from a machine gun in a nearby house.

The bandits swarmed out of the house and behind a shot gun and machine gun barrage, leaped into the police car and fled, leaving the loot in one of their machines.

twenty minutes later that they were cheered by the knowledge they were flying over land. What land they did not know. What part of the North American continent or what island they could not guess. But it was land and, however isolated and uninhabited it might be, it brought fresh courage to them and they decided to fly on in the hope of getting some bearings.

Despite all the perils these men already had been through, despite the fact their gas was running low, and despite the fact they were in constant danger of being plunged to their death in one of those treacherous, so-called air pockets, these three men actually hoped to be successful in reaching their destination, Mitchel Field, and they kept on flying. The fact that they were flying over land brought them the realization of triumph and it seemed to spur them on rather than give then an excuse to make the quickest landing possible.

Made Several Circles.

And so they battled the gale, which was becoming stronger, and the snow, which was becoming more and more blinding.

From information which they now possess, the fliers realize that they must have made several circles in their flight at this point. Because they remained in the air approximately four hours after first sighting land and yet, as they can see now, it was only about forty or fifty miles from the eastern coastline of Newfoundland to the spot where they came down on Greenly Island.

Finally, however, at about 5:30 p. m., Friday, their fuel supply was reduced to virtually nothing and they realized they must land at once, and found to their consternation they were over water again.

But nearby they sighted an island and made directly for it. They were flying low now, ready to land as soon as they could discover an even half-way suitable stretch of land.

As they circled over the island they found a tiny lake almost below them. They carried neither pontoons nor skiis. It would be a hazardous landing with the possibility of cracking up their plane, but it was the only chance they had.

Tail Skid Damaged.

They came down as cautiously as possible in the face of the gale, and came to a sharp and skiddy landing on the ice. The ice cracked and the plane's tail skid was damaged. But the Bremen came to a full stop and the three weary men stepped out on the ice without a scratch or a bruise, the first men in the history of aviation to cross the North Atlantic ocean from east to west without a stop.

They had won their fight. They had blazed a new trail. They had conquered where all others had failed.

But they were in a strange and barren land. As far as they could see in any direction were the frozen stretches of land and the iceblocked straits which connect the Gulf of St. Lawrence with the open Atlantic. They saw no trees, no buildings, no habitation, no life of any kind.

They had conquered the Atlantic but they had no idea where they were or in what direction they should strike out to reach some sort of civilization.

FRANK FRISCH HITS BALL TO S. T. C. COACH

H. F. ("Shorty") Lawrence Catches Home Run Which Cardinal Star Slams Into Bleachers.

H. F. ("Shorty") Lawrence, coach at the State Teachers College, has the envy of every small boy and of many other St. Louis Cardinal fans.

Lawrence went to St. Louis last Saturday with Coach Earl Davis, and the two Maryville men atttended the St. Louis Cardinal-Chicago Cubs baseball game. Toward the middle of the game, Mr. Lawrence thought he would move out in the bleachers to absorb some sunshine. He was fortunate enough to find a seat in the right field bleachers, so that he was able to catch the ball that Frank Frisch, Cardinal second baseman, slugged for a home run in the seventh inning. The Cards won, 4 to 3.

Of course, "Shorty" brought the baseball home with him.

Spoofhounds Third in Trenton Golf Contest

Edgar Russell with a 98 and Pete Dietz with 105, representing the Maryville high school, took third in the two-some golf match held at Trenton Friday in connection with the annual high school track and field meet. Don Martin with 88 and Zoesch with 106, representing the Trention high school, were first. Two Chillicothe high school boys, Billy Gill with 89 and Sam McDowell with 119, were second.

Maryville did not get any points in the track meet. Maysville got 14½ points in the meet instead of Maryville, as stated Saturday.

Kearns-Dempsey Suit Over to Wednesday

New York, April 16.—The Jack Kearns-Jack Dempsey suit which was scheduled to go to trial in Federal court here today was postponed until Wednesday.

Judge John C. Knox is hearing another case which is not expected to be completed until late Tuesday.

Kearns is suing Dempsey for $701,026.60 which the former manager of "the Manassa Mauler," claims is due him under a contract signed by Dempsey and held by Kearns. The contract was drawn up September 23, 1923, and provided for Kearns to do Dempsey's bidding through August 3, 1926, for which he was to receive one-third of Dempsey's earnings.
